They immediately took cover in shell-holes. Displaying fine initiative, and with a total disregard for his personal danger, Sgt. Daniels grasped the situation and rushed the Germans, whom he took by surprise, engaging them single-handed with bombs. They made off after an exchange of bombs, leaving the M.G. complete ^{with ammunition} in his hands, with which he returned to our lines. This party was evidently working in conjunction with an enemy raiding party operation on the battalions on our left, and it is undoubtedly due to the prompt and gallant action of Sgt. Daniels, that a raid on our front was frustrated. He was awarded the Military Medal in December 1917. Recommended _____ Brig-General, Cmdg., 3rd Can. Inf.
